

waiting for the elevators, we took the stairs and climbed six floors together. Anyways, we checked in on our brother Bader then headed to the hotel in a region called Hammamet, and that evening the ambassador invited us to dinner. He had also invited representatives from the three Tunisian charities accredited by the Kuwaiti Embassy and Bayt Zakat. So our clever and practical ambassador killed two birds with one stone, hosting a dinner to welcome us as well as to conduct business, because there is no time wasted by our ambassador. I also noticed his extreme interest and encouragement for charity work. On the second day, we headed out of the city towards our project which was 350 kilometers away, and there we met the ambassador who had arrived before us! Yes, he left his house at dawn and arrived before us, attended the celebration, then returned at sunset to Tunis. In one day he traveled 700 kilometers to honor us with a touching speech which reflected the beautiful side of our country, Kuwait! And before we traveled, he invited us to have dinner with him again, and of course the guys, especially our brother Ibrahim Al-Saleh, were delighted to eat authentic Kuwaiti food. We will dive deep into this trip in another article, but I wanted to distinguish and set apart His Excellency, Ambassador Ali Al-Dhafiri and his embassy's staff.

And to them I say: Thank you very much, and all thanks to the Minister for Foreign Affairs for his good choice of representatives of the diplomatic corps.
