

transfers of expatriates working in Kuwait. All of these thoughts are being circulated among the public without any insight from the government.

Oh, government body! None of you are talking to us, on television or radio, addressing the people regularly or at least weekly. People have concerns and it's apparent on the people's faces. Everyone is worried for this country, and the lack of reassurance from the government pushes the citizens to get their news from WhatsApp and Twitter. The people turn to platforms where issues can get enlarged and rumours spread irrationally. They rush into buying apartments abroad, and those who cannot afford to do that are buying gold instead.

My people! Unjustified anxiety and pessimism have entered our hearts, all due to the government's failure to communicate and connect with citizens on a weekly basis as a treatment for this nation which is torn by fears.

May this year bring the best to all of you and to this country.
